GALLBLADDER STONES: HOMEOPATHIC APPROACH

A pear-shaped or hollow organ beneath the liver is gallbladder where the storage and concentration of bile juice occurs and aids in the digestion of fatty foods, whenever changes or disturbances occur in bile juice it may results in the formation of pebble-like stones known as gall bladder stones or cholelithiasis. Gall bladder stones occur due to undissolved cholesterol or bilirubin products. The size of the gall stones can either be big or small or a combination of both.

Symptoms:

When there are inflammation and obstruction of the duct by gall stones it is known as cholecystitis. Initially, it is asymptomatic but when the size of the stone increases and obstruction becomes severe it results in colicky pain in the right upper part of the abdomen with tenderness, fever, chills, nausea, vomiting, pain radiating to the right shoulder or back etc. Jaundice may occur if the biliary system gets obstructed and if the stone blocks the pancreatic duct, then pancreatitis may occur.

Risk factors:

Gallstones may be found more commonly in-women, person who is obese leading a sedentary lifestyle, having high cholesterol diet, fatty foods, during pregnancy, intake of oral contraceptive pills, age above 40 years, a person diagnosed with diabetes and liver diseases, family history of gallstones etc

Complications:

If untreated possible complications can occur like gangrene, rupture of gall bladder, jaundice, pancreatitis, septicemia due to infection etc.

HOMEOPATHY FOR GALLBLADDER STONE:

When the stones are smaller in size, homeopathy may help to reduce their size. Not only do homeopathic medicines help in reducing the pain associated with gallstones but also reduce inflammation of the gallbladder. It helps as a preventive medicine in stone formation. If the stones are bigger in size, multiple & obstructed, they may require surgical intervention.

Severe abdominal pain may need immediate treatment. The patient should always see a doctor if they begin to have severe, unexplained abdominal pain. Our doctors may recommend hospitalization if the symptoms are severe, so that the patient can be monitored under the care of a surgeon.

Few Homeopathic remedies indicated in gallbladder stones are Berberis Vulgaris, China, Belladonna, Cardus Marianus, Carbo Veg, Colocynth, Cholesterinum, Chionanthus, Lycopodium, Nux Vomica, Pulsatilla. Etc.
